WE NOMINATE

Charles Rosenbury Erdman Jr., self-described "modern Republican" and long-time figure on both the Princeton and New Jersey scenes, who this past week—following one of the most bitter sessions of "in-fighting" in the history of the Republican Party in New Jersey—was elevated to the all-important, and often thankless, post of State Chairman. Upon the 61-year old Erdman, a resident of Princeton for more than a half-century, will fall a major share of the responsibility for revitalizing a once-potent organization that in recent years has struggled almost as much with factional and financial problems as it has with mounting opposition at the polls.

Contrary to the often-expressed belief that political leaders, regardless of party affiliation, are motivated by thoughts of personal gain rather than by deeply held convictions. Erdman will serve as the G.O.P.'s chairman on a full-time basis, but without salary. To his new assignment, at a time when the thoughts of voters and politicians alike are winging towards the next presidential election, this scholarly-appearing and outspoken Princetonian has brought dogged determination not only for projecting a holding action for Republican control of the State Senate but also for waging an all-out offensive for dominance in the Democratic-held Assembly.

Behind Erdman, a son of a beloved former Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in this country, lies some three decades of purposeful public service, including 12 years as the unsalaried Mayor of the Borough of Princeton and ten, from 1944 until 1954, high in the councils of Republican Governors Edge and Driscoll. Incidentally, Erdman, while holding forth as the State's Commissioner of Economic Development, was among those who persuaded Governor Edge to purchase "Morven"—the historic mansion (abutting Erdman's Boudinot Street holdings), which Governor and Mrs. Edge gave to the State of New Jersey in 1954 as the official home of future Governors of the State.

Erdman, teacher, author, advocate of sound government and athletic enthusiast, was graduated in 1920 from Princeton University where he set hurdles records and subsequently earned both his master's and doctoral degrees. He taught at Princeton for eight years and won wide recognition for a series of brilliant studies on the crazy-quilt patterns of municipal government in New Jersey. A driving-force in the revision of the State Constitution in the late 1940's and at one time director of the State's Municipal Aid Administration, he continues as a member of the Borough's Planning Board. His outlets in recent years have included the organization of the Lawrenceville School's annually successful Christmas-time Hockey Tournament and the presidency of Princeton's newly founded Pee-Wee Hockey League.

For his life-long interest in all matters pertaining to government; for believing deeply in the things in which he believes; for always conscientious, and often distinguished, service to his community, to his state and to the political party of his convictions; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for matter and, though he probably didn't lose any sleep over it, he may have made a real political blunder by wearing his standard big, bright bow tie—green-and-white Dartmouth polka dots no less. The governor visited with Governor Meyner of New Jersey's gubernatorial mansion here, reportedly to discuss ways of "promoting a strong national democratic ideal for 1960," so it will be two years before either of them knows how thankful he should be for this pre-Thanksgiving party.

Republican Charles R. Erdman Jr., handed some political problems of his own over the weekend (see Man of the Week), launched his new job with some remarks about Mr. Meyner's administrative ability that were hardly intended to enhance Mr. Meyner's chances in '60, or in the meantime for that matter. On the basis of these comments, and other hollidic developments, it is not surprising that some descendants of the original New England Puritans refuse to observe Thanksgiving, claiming it should be inspired by the Deity, not by politicians.

PERSONALITIES

Franklin C. (Cappy) Cappon, 166 Prospect Avenue, Dean of the Ivy League basketball coaches who, as he enters his 18th season as head coach of Princeton's varsity five, is more clearly identified this week than anyone else in the east with the quick transition from football time to basketball time. Named just last year to the Helms Hall College Basketball Hall of Fame, Mr. Cappon will throw heart, soul—and voice—into a difficult, three-month campaign next Wednesday (see story, page 18) and, by January, will be thinking in terms of the Ivy title, last won by the Tigers in 1955.

Paul Lincoln Smith, Princeton Avenue, Rocky Hill, down-to-earth vocal interpreter who this week is having the time of his life as the space man who comes down to earth in "Visit to a Small Planet," former Broadway hit now being staged amusingly and successfully by the Community Players (for comments, turn to page 5). A veteran TCF performer who can play with tongue-in-cheek without letting

BOARD SAYS "NO"

Will Advertise Again for Bids. Princeton Township's Board of Education has rejected all bids submitted for construction of its proposed two new schools.

The action was taken because low cost submitted by contractors was almost 25 percent higher than the original architects' estimates. $1,150,000 was authorized for construction of the schools, including the cost of roads, architects' fees, etc. Actual building costs were estimated to be about $920,000 but the low bids totaled $1,133,000.

After making revised estimates and eliminating certain features, the architects now say that, with revisions, the buildings should total about $925,000. The architects have made the following changes: elimination of dropped acoustical ceilings; elimination of sunscreen overhang on parts of the building to save about $25,000 and simplify drainage; substitution of folding roll-up cafeteria tables for built-in-the-wall tables, saving $10,000; a change in the type of windows, saving $11,000; change ceiling light fixtures to 12 drop light fixtures, and elimination of certain features in plumbing and heating which will not impair efficiency of the plant.

Robert T. chairman of the Board's construction committee, said that although two months of time have been lost, the need for revision, the Board still hopes to have at least the "academic" parts of the buildings finished for September classes.

WANTED FOR MURDER

Plainboro Woman Shot. A 5-foot 6-inch, 200-pound Negro farmhand—wanted for the murder of a Plainboro woman—was the subject of a 13-state manhunt this week as Town Township tried to put the victim, Mrs. Rose Drake, 42, of Cranbury Road, died at 10:25 a.m. Tuesday in Princeton Hospital as a result of abdominal shotgun wounds.

State Police of the Princeton Borough, who made a wide-area search "wanted for murder" alarm, said the suspect is Leroy B. Williams, 36. He disappeared immediately following the shooting—about 8:30 Tuesday evening—in his 1949 Chevrolet sedan, taking his shotgun with him.

According to investigators, Williams and the murdered woman, with whom he had been living since July, were drinking heavily Sunday afternoon when argument developed. Mrs. Drake reportedly threatened to stop supporting him and to throw him out of the house. From her deathbed, she told detectives the argument prompted the shooting.

Troopers said Mrs. Drake's husband, 33, is in jail as a result of a knife fight with Williams two months ago. Previously, Drake served time for beating his wife.

PBA EXTENDS SERVICE

To Improve Credit File. Directors of the Princeton Business Association were informed Monday that, beginning December 1, the association's office at 134 Nassau Street will be open and available to members eight hours a day, instead of two hours—as is the case now. Bur-Wick's Secretarial Services will operate the PBA office from 9 to 5 Mondays through Fridays and 9 to noon Saturdays, retaining the old office telephone number (WA 4-5645).

Discussing the new schedule at the meeting at the Nassau Tavern, Edward A. Clossosky, association president, said the PBA's 100-plus members will benefit by getting much more use out of the association office. In particular, they will be able to make the organization's growing credit file more easily and right when they need it—by calling the office and identifying themselves by coming directly to the office.

Regarding the operation of street parking meters in the downtown business area on Friday night—a move recommended by the PBA and ordained by Borough Council—Mr. Clossosky noted that the plan may well go into effect by December 5. With this fast-approaching date in mind, the directors agreed to advertise the terms of the ordinance, which specifies meters to be used on Friday nights, and also to remind shoppers that they may continue to park free of charge Friday nights in the architecturally located municipal lots downtown (see detailed ad, page 10).

LOTS OF INCHES NEEDED TO MAKE "THE BIG INCH": King-size trenches for king-size pipes are being dug northwest of Princeton—near the intersection of Roseade and Carter Roads—by Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corporation. Part of the company's gigantic line from Texas to the suburbs of New York City, the new installation will serve as a branch from the main line to the north-central part of Pennsylvania, connecting to "The Big Inch" near here. By late winter, the branch line will be completed and will enable Transcontinental to store excess gas in Pennsylvania's Leidy Field—3 depicted gas field—during summertime, for use in New York when the demand gets heavy in wintertime.

President Clossosky reported to the 13 directors in attendance that the PBA, in cooperation with the Princeton Junior Chamber of Commerce, will erect one or two life-size Christmas scenes in the business area by December 15. The tradition, which will be located in Palmer Square in front of the U.S. Post Office, while the other, if constructed in time for use this year, probably will be placed on Nassau Street between Vandeventer Avenue and Moore Street.

ADULT SCHOOL PLANS

New Term Begins January 15. Featured during the Princeton Adult School's winter term, which runs from January 15 through March 26, will be two "headline" courses, one on American foreign policy and the other on contemporary architecture. Two informal lecture series will deal with 20th century poetry and organic chemistry.

Speakers for "The World Today," one of the "headline" courses, will include Princeton residents who are familiar at first hand with various parts of the world. The architecture course will be given by faculty members of the University's School of Architecture as well as New York authorities on contemporary building.

New courses included in the winter term curriculum will deal with such varied subjects as public speaking, the ancient Chinese game of "Go," investment management and recent European books. Another innovation will be a course on hi-fi.

Language courses are planned to continue through the winter term to give those currently enrolled the opportunity to keep up their study in preparation for intermediate or advanced classes. Vacancies remaining by the public registration date will be open to additional students.

The Adult School holds its classes at the High School from 10-11 on ten consecutive Thursday evenings.

SCHOOL ELECTION TUESDAY

Lawrenceville Will Vote. On December 2, residents of Lawrence Township will vote in a school election whose outcome will decide whether or not the Lawrence school system is to expand.

The building program, which will cost $819,000, calls for the addition of six classrooms to the Slackwood School; the addition of a kitchen and alteration of the gym into an all-purpose room; the addition to the Junior High of 16 rooms including 12 regular classrooms and one room each for shop, art and music, and home economics. The cafeteria, which also may be enlarged under the proposed plans.

The school board also proposes the purchase of some five acres of land next to the Slackwood school for more playground space, and the purchase of 13 acres next to the Junior High for a future senior high school.

The new classrooms would be ready for use no later than September 1960. If the proposed plans are rejected by the voters at the forthcoming election, they or other plans—can be put up for re-vote. The Board hopes that the proposed new rooms will take care of future school populations to five years or more.

At present, Lawrence Township has three sub-standard rooms (defined as a room not originally intended for a classroom, which does not meet standards of light, space, heat and ventilation.) Permission to use such rooms is granted by the County Superintendent of schools on a temporary basis only.

The cost in terms of tax increase is estimated to be 37.3 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. There would be no increase until 1960 because interest and principal would not start until that year.

TELL IT TO PRINCETON

Report from the Mayor. Borough Engineer I. Russell Riker has moved his office from the Borough Hall attic to the first floor of the Witterspoon Community Building, formerly the YMCA. Making this announcement in his weekly report, Mayor Raymond F. Male says that he and Borough Council hope that the move is temporary because of the inconvenience of having Borough departments separated.

Weekly "Tell-it-to-the-Mayor" sessions will be held at Borough Hall during December on the following schedule: Wednesday, December 3 and 10; Friday, December 18 and 26. These sessions, for which no appointment is necessary, are held from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. So far in 1959, more than 900 visitors have taken the time to talk with the Mayor about town problems.

SPEEDER LOSSES LICENSE

Also Fined in Borough Court. Gordon White, 37, Mt. Lucas Road, received a five-day suspended sentence, was fined $65 and had his license suspended for 60 days by Magistrate Theodore T. Tams in Borough Court this week. The 35-year-old White was charged with doing 85 miles an hour on Mercer Street at night.

Magistrate Tams found Norman Whiting, 24 Leigh Avenue, guilty of jaywalking when he was "flushed" while crossing the street and fined him $20. Also fined were T. A. Moore, 35, of 15 Green Street, $25 for speeding, and Mrs. Anna Warner, 56, of 98 Old Lane, $15 for failing to stop at a stop sign.

The state department of motor vehicles announced that Iford Beales, 27, of 156 John Street, has had his driver's license revoked for a month. He has had three speeding convictions.

ROUTINE CASES

Drew Tams in Borough Court. Five defendants appeared before Magistrate Louis R. Gerber in Township Court Tuesday evening, and each went away with at least a $15 assessment. Four Princeton area residents and one visitor were fined. Four of the defendants were found guilty of careless driving, the other paid his penalty for disorderly conduct.

The 35-year-old Tams, a Taylor Marrow, 60, of 121 Birch Avenue, put up an eloquent stand in his own defense, but Magistrate Gerber finally decided the defendant's disturbance in front of the White Horse Tavern, also on Birch Avenue, overshadowed the "provocation" that prompted him to make noise and use profane

The teeth-chattering poet is dead right: on Sunday, for instance, the thermometer touched a new low for the fall season when it recorded 23 degrees. There was a temporary shift in the other direction Monday as southwest breezes wafting the temperature all the way up to a balmy 63 for a few brief hours before showers and another cold front arrived.

The wintry weather that has already racked the midwest is due here this weekend, the Man said. Not in the form of snow, but cold winds and scudding clouds will dominate the picture. Little precipitation in sight, he said, with November scheduled to become one of the few 1958 months producing below-average rainfall.

3rd Street School auditorium. John Reed is serving as president of the Teen Canteen's council this year, assisted by John Davis, vice-president; Alice Nemeth, acting secretary; and Luemma King, treasurer. Recent actions by the council include passage of a new constitution and a donation of $75 to the Heart Fund in memory of Henry W. Kenarney, one of its adult advisors.

MRS. EVANS RESIGNS

From Board of Family Service. Mrs. William K. Evans, who has served on the boards of the Family Service Agency since 1945, has been forced to resign her post as publicity chairman due to illness. Mrs. William H. Sayen III will fill the position for the rest of the year.

The November board meeting of the organization featured a speech of the Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, a member of the board, on recent housing developments in the community. Walter G. Barlow, executive vice-president of Opinion Research Corporation, was present for the session.

During November, the Family Service Agency has given assistance to 72 families through its marital counseling and case work with families and individuals. It operates its own guidance clinic to handle a limited number of patients in need of psychiatric help and refers some to other mental hygiene facilities.

1959 MARCH OF DIMES

County Campaign to be Planned. County and municipal campaign directors will meet in Princeton Monday to make plans for the 1959 March of Dimes in Mercer County. The session is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Princeton Laboratories.

Mrs. William Kleinberg, county chairman of women's activities, and Freeholder Richard J. Coffey, county chairman of men's activities, will conduct the meeting. The county director for the March of Dimes is Mrs. Walter A. Schoeller.

"This year the National Foundation, supported by the March of Dimes, has a bigger job to do than ever before," Mrs. Schoeller stated. It is still fighting polio, which includes the great cost of caring for victims and making sure the public takes advantage of the Salk vaccine protection.

"In addition the National Foundation has extended its programs of research and patient care into vital new fields such as arthritis and birth defects," the county director continued. She noted that these new problems will require "the same dynamic teamwork of the public and scientists that marked the successful fight against polio."

AUW CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

Foreign Customs to be Theme. Christmas traditions of foreign countries will be featured at the December meeting of the Princeton branch of the American Association of University Women. The session is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Frank B. Stover, 310 Jefferson Road.

Members will present a program including the customs and traditions of Mexico, the Netherlands. —Continued on Page 9

News Of The THEATRES

PLAYERS OPEN SEASON

Off to Flying Start, The Princeton Community Players have launched their 20th season with a lively, amusingly foolish romp that even the Marx Community Players would "dig" — and heartily enjoy. "Visit to a Small Planet," still very much in residence at the Playhouse (see box), has gotten the popular, amateur thespians off and winging once again. It was a wise choice for the year's first production and should receive the community's enthusiastic endorsement.

Without asking permission from the theatrically minded scientists down at Cape Canaveral, the Players have taken their vehicle for a real ride, accommodating low comedy in high style. They have surrounded Gore Vidal's satire with just the amount of slapstick the author might have prescribed. Once airborne, they have managed to keep their viewers merrily up in the clouds.

"Visit," of course, deals with the fairly fantastic notion that a gentleman from outer space may one day — next summer, for instance — drop in on earth for a laugh or two. Hailing from a part of the universe where human beings are perfect, and therefore unbearably dull, he has made earth his hobby. He decides to come here, where he can have some fun.

Kretton, the visitor of "Visit," has a rather peculiar idea of how he can live it up in America — Manassas, Virginia, if the specific location matters. His thought: provoke a world war because earthlings are masters of violence. In short, Vidal is vital behind the veil.

Inexperienced But Good. Cyril Richard and Eddie Mayheoff, a couple of clown princes, brought down the house on Broadway for quite a spell. Princeton can't boast their talents, but it can claim a generally competent, if generally inexperienced, cast. One of the few participating PCP veterans, Paul Lincoln Smith, has given the role of the visitor something of the meticulously comic touch given it by Richard, and he is outstanding. Newcomer Murray Shear, a bit too loud, is nonetheless appealing as a dull, yet funny, general.

"Visit" has Jerry Larson as a TV commentator without a sense of humor, Frances Colley as a ridiculous housewife, Marguerite Maloney as an art student whose major subject is sex and Raymond Ridgeway as a disillusioned patriot. Also on hand, in lesser parts, are Jim Nowak, Daniel Shively, Stephen Smith, John Croll and a well-behaved (at one performance anyhow) cat named Miss Soopy Lulyma.

In addition to the majority of cast members, director Jim Graves is a novice, having picked "Visit" for his initial bid to become a regular PCP "boss man." Off his showing in the current, fast-paced offering, he should encounter little difficulty in obtaining future Playmill assignments. And, incidentally, the scenery crew — while obviously not newcomers — should be "drafted" often. Their bright living room has "IT" (in capital letters).

SKIN OF OUR TEETH

Wildier at Miss Fine's. The Dramatic Club at Miss Fine's School will present "The Skin of Our Teeth" as its annual production. The Thornton Wilder play will be given next Friday and Saturday in the school gymnasium under the direction of Mrs. James Beck. Play committees and their chairmen are: scenery, Susan Robbins and Pauline Miller; makeup, Susan Valentine (Katherine Adams assisting); lights, Susan Stevenson and Martha Strinsky (Sandra Sidford assisting); costumes, Julia Fulper and Julie Anne Cornforth; properties, —Continued on Page 6

"Visit" Needs Visitors
After playing to a crowd of 100 on opening night, a full house last Saturday evening and a what-you-might-expect-for-a-football-afternoon hand-out at Saturday's matinee, "Visit to a Small Planet" will continue at the Playmill on Alexander Street this week end. Performances of the gay holiday offering will start at 8:30 Friday and 2:30 and 8:30 Saturday.
According to leaders of the Princeton Community Players, presenting "Visit," turnouts over the first week end were "encouraging," though they must be duplicated or topped this final week end in order for the show to be called "a financial success." Tickets for the comedy may be ordered at 17 Chambers Street or by phoning WA 1-9678, and also may be purchased at the Playmill box office before each performance.

THE PLAYHOUSE
Houseboat (Nov. 27-Dec. 2), in English with Sophia Loren, sails along merrily, bringing to every port a pleasant comedy that is intended to appeal to the whole family at holiday-time. It isn't always a rollicking vessel—and some of the situations follow a pretty familiar current—but there are bright, fast, funny lines conveyed by an uninkable cast. A typical romantic involvement and a non-involved story are overshadowed by the total product, which includes VistaVision, Technicolor and two singable tunes, "Almost in Your Arms" and "Bing, Bang, Bong."
"Houseboat" concerns a handsome Washington widower (Gary Grant) who hires a comely, mysterious housekeeper (Miss Loren) to manage his unmanageable children (Paul Peterson, 13; Mimi Gibson, 11, and Charles Herbert, 8). Miss Loren, quite good as a comedienne and mother-of-the-moment, turns out to be the father-avoiding daughter of a noted Italian conductor (Eduardo Cinnelli). A mixed-up truck driver (Harry Cundind), believing she is a maid, falls heavily for Miss Loren—as does Grant, whose sister-in-law (Martha Hyer) complicates the picture.

THE GARDEN
The Seventh Seal (November 27-29), in Swedish with English titles, is a beautiful, prize-winning effort by writer-director Ingmar ("Smiles of a Summer Night") Bergman. According to Cue magazine, it is "a strange, powerful, exquisitely poetic allegory of man in search of God, faith and truth in a world beset by superstition and ignorance, bewitched with confusion." Set in Sweden in the 14th Century, the picture is not unlike a medieval pageant.
The film's protagonist, who seeks to find himself in his search for God, is a knight returned from the Crusades, wearied, disillusioned, tormented by doubts. On meeting black-cloaked Death, they play chess for the knight's life, with the understanding that as long as the game endures the man may live. The allegorical film ends on a note of thin hope after author Bergman has made his point. It is an obvious modern application to soldiers today, returning from wars and finding the world sick.

The Baker's Wife (December 1-2), in French with English titles, is an 18-year-old foreign film classic starring Edna and produced by Marcel Pagnol. A sophisticated comedy, it tells the story of a baker in a small town in southern France who refuses to bake bread for the townspeople until the return of his pretty young wife, who has run off with the shepherd of a wealthy gentleman. When she comes back, fearful and contrite, the baker receives her with tenderness in a scene of savage irony, then resumes his business of baking bread.

Put Bouillie (December 3-6), in French with English titles, is a sexy bedroom farce by Emile Zola that co-stars two favorites on both sides of the Atlantic, Gerard Philipe and Daniele Darrieux. A social satire depicting the elastic morals and hypocrisy of mid-19th Century France, this elaborately produced, generally amusing "adult" comedy details the adventures of an ambitious Parisian youth who roams through shops, boulevards and bedrooms conquering women.

IT'S PERSONAL

Just a Little Diamond? If you suspect that your husband has decided against the $10,000 diamond necklace we wrote about last week, you might steer him to some of the splendid costume jewelry lying carelessly around town this year, or to some of the fine genuine pieces that are under ten grand.

The Florentine finish is particularly popular. At LaVake Reid, you'll find many lovely pieces in 18 karat gold, 14 karat or gold fill. Florentine is that brushed finish, so often used with a border of shiny gold to enhance its texture. LaVake has this gold jewelry wrought in circular designs or made into leaves and various patterns.

At The Town Shop on Palmer Square, the Florentine pieces are combined with pearls. Among its other "jewels," the Town Shop has a cat with a "real" ruby eye and an emerald body, and a pair of strawberry clips made of tiny garnets.

Trifari jeferly at Mayme Mead features a wide gold bracelet-like twist of lemon peel. At The French Shop, big lapel pins are in vogue and we liked one that's a shaggy gold chrysanthemum. Monet is at The English Shop and the collection there, ranges from $3 to $12 for pins, earrings, bracelets and brooches.

Ladies who like copper will find plenty at The Gunmetal Shop; cravats, necklaces, earrings, for every taste. Some pieces are traditional, some are free-form and modern. For a dollar at this shop, you may have a little sterling silver pin, perhaps a horse's head, a kitten or a plain circlet.

Party jewelry glitters like New Years Eve. Tiny oval garnets hang in tris from a Celsus diamond necklace; clear crystals gleam coyly from a gold chain; giant emeralds form themselves in clusters for ear and throat.

Jewelry from India continues to be popular at The Flower Basket. Smooth-surfaced mosaics of turquoise chips and silver, make 12 oblong medallions into a necklace; a two-inch circle hangs pendant from a chain; earrings are shaped like a pear; a bracelet is a link of octagons.

At Kung Ping, you'll find dark pieces of amber carved in overall scrolls and set into silver pins. (Buy here, too, the teak jewelry box to contain your treasures.)

The charm bracelet is a Christmas staple. Pakman, the jeweler on Witherspoon Street, has anodized aluminum ones for 75 cents and solid gold ones from $13, with individual charms from $5. At The Town Shop, here are gold charms like the wishing well whose handle turns and hauls up a red heart; a Princeton seal and various small animals.

Pakman also has gold or sterling silver crosses, most of them smooth, clean and without ornament, from $1.75 and up. Solid gold start at $5.75.

Short Story

To keep a man warm in the wintertime, Lahey's, the men's clothing store at 150 Nassau, suggests a pair of shorts made, so they say, like a fireplace. Actually, they aren't; they're just made of bright red brick, that's all, and they look as much like a patio as a fireplace. The bricks are well-commented (you can see the thick cement between each one) and they are full-size. A bit hard to sit down in? Not a bit. Haven't you ever heard of soft bricks?

Another pair of shorts at Lahey's is white, imprinted with all kinds of chairs for all kinds of men: a student's desk, a wheelchair for the chairman of the board, a stool for the clerk, a chair hobbled with ticker tape for the president and last of all, a high chair—for the beginner.

Just for fun—Rosette Pennington has $2 dinner rings big as a quarter and loaded with pearls, emeralds and probably the Hope diamond. She also carries four-inch-long curtains of rhinestones to dangle from your ear. Tailored jewelry in this Shopping Center shop is made of pignin bound with gold and shaped, irregularly, into two-inch-wide bracelets and earrings that look like softly rounded triangles. The warm tones of the pignin go beautifully with the gold banding.

Something for the Boys. Daddy's present this year may be the tie bar in Florentine gold at LaVake Reid. It's $39 and to go with it you'll probably buy the matching cufflinks from $150. They are half-inch squares with a small diamond in the center. Sterling cuff links start at $7.50 at Pakman's, and of course you'll want a Hamilton electric watch, too. They are made only for men so there can be no nonsense about mother getting one to match. Mr. Pakman will give you a demonstration if you're curious about electric watches.

Kung Ping sends your accountant to work with silver cufflinks and the bar that are really tiny abacuses. Black links and clasp have a silver Chinese character—Continued on Page 8 acter that probably means "good luck." The cheery means "I've got your number."

If you're going to buy something besides jewelry, you might pick the shoe butter at Hult's. It has two brushes, two cans of polish and a metal well rack that holds the shoe while you shine away.
The French Shop breaks into the man's world this year with Dunhill, and you'll find lighters, cigars, pens, flasks (in the French Shop?), key chains and neck brushes.

Handkerchiefs and neckties: if you're going to give the traditional, you might as well give the best. Farkouh, the linen shop in the Shopping Center, has exquisite hand-rolled linen handkerchiefs, five for $1.00. A TV handkerchief is one with the monogram across the hem instead of in the corner so it will show, on camera. Better buy one, in case Ed Murrow calls.
A Swiss cotton handkerchief at Farkouh's is a small sheet, with a four-inch inner border of self stripes. Men's handkerchiefs are $1.50 at Clayton's, with a discreet corner monogram for men who are not on camera.

Lahy's thinks you should buy pigskin-pelmed gloves in tan or grey for hand, soft so a warm breeze. They are $3.
Neckties could be Charcut or Bonington from The Town Shop (bow or fore-in-hand) or Rooster from Mary Chaplin. In the Rooster collection, there are patterns of old cars, elongated fish, covered wagons, Roman coins and just plain splashes of color.

And Four to Go! Throw away last year's milk and buy something new for Christmas parties. Here are the four prettiest short party dresses from Princeton's dress shops:
Rosette Pennington: bright gold slipper satin, bow in back, fold down front, wide Unack . . . royal blue tulle with unusual vertical bow in front (Suzzy Perette) . . . aqua satin, strapless, full-horn rose at hem, plain bodice, lavish stile . . . for only $25: royal blue satin with one-inch straps, one-inch bow tie at waist.
Elise Gumpil: (all these are women's sizes) navy blue, scalloped V-neckline, insets of shirred silk organza . . . black peau de soie with slash of ice-blue and skirt that folds back to show it off . . . black crepe faced with bright red satin that shows through hemline trim of black lace medallions . . . navy silk

Ugly Duckling

The only glamorous thing about an ostrich is the way his feathers look when you take them off the bird to loop them around the neck of a sleeveless blonde. The feathers of which we speak have been dyed a soft pastel pink and arranged tastefully around the borders of the creamiest looking bed-jacket you ever saw.
The jacket itself is also pink, made of sheer nylon tricot with three-quarter sleeves and a bolero cut. The feathers go all the way around the neck, down both sides of the front and around the back, besides circling each sleeve. You'll find this eminently practical garment at The Town Shop on Palmer Square where it is available not only to sleeveless blondes but to women who only wish they were.
Mind you don't dribble soft-bolled egg on those feathers.

tuffed, tucked waist, neckline trimmed with cut-out scallops backed with navy net.

French: deep lilac sheath, side drape, trim side pouf, drape and hem trimmed with inch-wide permanent pleating . . . tangerine silk organza (junior), lowered diagonal waistline, seven-tiered skirt, wide neck . . . ice blue peau de soie "suffice" skirt, big rose at hem and bosom . . . ensemble of pale rose embroidered brocade sheath, apple green slipper satin sash, apple green satin coat lined with pale rose taffeta.

Mayme Mead: ivory satin, strapless, full skirt, with terracotta coin dots and crushed sash of terre-cotta . . . ensemble of watered taffeta, princess, deeply flared with chiffon folds at neckline, leaf green with matching coat . . . olive green and pink silk print, full skirt, empire top . . . black crepe sheath, stole fastened by each end to back of bodice; wear as hanging loop, or drape over shoulders.

Mary Gills: pale copper moire, round panel bodice, over straight skirt, front and back . . . lilac satin, harem skirt, shoe-string straps . . . stripes of black lace and point d'esprit going around flesh-colored underskirt . . . white crepe sheath, empire, rhinestone pinpoints.

Bailey's: severe black, moire, giant buckle on belt . . . blue and purple roses, silver-stemmed black silk . . . ruby velvet, straight skirt, empire top, short ring sleeves, deep V-back.

Fabrie Shop: make your own, from wide, rippling lengths of silk, peau de soie, brocade, satin, silk organza, velvet, velveteen or something called "lurex" that's all gold or all silver. We dare you to try it.

Evening accessories might start with tapered ice satin pumps from Hult's. They can be dyed any color, worn with matching satin bow or a bow outlined with rhinestones.
The most popular evening bag is the jewel colored snap purse of satin, or variations of it. Look for this bag at The Cummins Shop, Town Shop, Rosette Pennington, Town Shop, all the glasses cases for evening wear (matching bag, too) in a flouncing roman stripe of emerald and rust. In this shop, too, are glittering accessories for an evening bag: combs, money cases, pill-boxes and so on.

lands, France, England, Germany and the Scandinavian countries. AAUW members who have recently moved to Princeton and others interested in becoming members have been invited to attend the meeting.

MARCHE SLAV

Nine Russians Visit Princeton. Led by A. I. Markushevich, a doctor of physics and mathematics and one of the leading pedagogical scientists of the Soviet Union, nine Russian educators took a tour of educational institutions in Princeton last Wednesday and Thursday as guests of Educational Testing Service.

In the course of their 30-hour visit, they met at Princeton University undergraduates, attended a University graduate seminar on American institutions, and heard a discussion at Educational Testing Service of tests in elementary and secondary schools. Some members of the group visited the Lawrenceville School where they expressed keenest interest in LaVino Field House, although they were scheduled to spend most of their time in physics and mathematics classes.

Three of the educators toured Princeton High, visiting the shop, commercial classes and classes in freshman mathematics. The visitor who sat in on the math class said that he was impressed with the teacher and told the students, through his interpreter, that mathematics was an important subject in general education.

The high school visitors were amused and delighted when they visited the orchestra room and found, "by coincidence," that the orchestra was rehearsing Tchaikovsky's "Marche Slav."

The nine Russian educators lunched with President Goheen, toured the University campus, and later visited the Institute of Advanced Study where they had tea with "Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer."

According to those who accompanied them on their various tours, the Russians were polite, conversational and relaxed. They seemed particularly impressed by the testing materials given them by E.T.S. because all the materials had been translated into Russian.

FIRST AID COURSE PLANNED

For West Windsor Residents. The Red Cross will give a course in first aid for West Windsor residents in January, sponsored by the West Windsor Civil Defense and Disaster Control and the Princeton Junction Fire Company. Classes will be held weekly at the Princeton Junction Firehouse.

School children will distribute notices about the course to each family in the Township, and those coming to take the course will have to sign the blank and return it through any school child. Persons completing the course will receive a card from the Red Cross that they have satisfactorily completed first aid instruction.

VALLEY ROAD HONORED

School Receives Safety Award. Valley Road School has received a certificate of Exceptional Merit and was placed on the National School Safety Honor Roll of the National Safety Council. John J. McKenna Jr., principal, made the announcement.

"We are proud of our safety program and are pleased that the National Safety Council has recognized our efforts," he commented. To receive the award and be placed on the Honor Roll, a school must be recommended on the basis of its safety program by a committee including the school principal, president of the PTA, a student and a social leader.

FOUR JOIN PACK 50

Receive Bobcat Pins. Four boys received their Bobcat pins to become members of Pack 50, Cub Scouts, at the group's last meeting. Joining were: Mark Lund, David French, George Bates and Peter Sheeran.

The Pack will decorate Christmas trees donated Princeton Hospital during December. Peter Groz, cubmaster, announced, Al-so, each Cub Scout in the Pack will be expected to repair an old but serviceable toy to be given to the Family Service Association.

IN RUSSIA WE DO IT THIS WAY: S. K. Karsten, vocational education specialist in the Soviet Ministry of Education, inspects a jointer teacher, center, and Chester Strop, assistant superintendent of Borough schools. Mr. Karsten was impressed by the PHS shop and asked, through his interpreter, for photographs of the entire shop lay out to take back to Russia. (Town Topics Photo by Alan Richards)

$2000 SHORT OF GOAL. Planned Parenthood Fund Drive. The annual fund raising campaign of Planned Parenthood of Princeton is still $2000 short of its goal. The extra funds are needed to expand the agency's services.

Mrs. Richard Lindabury and Mrs. Frank Nofelskin, co-chairmen of the drive, noted that although the goal has not been reached, the campaign has received donations from 27 new contributors. The agency maintains a weekly clinic at its Princeton office, 180 Nassau Street.

Dr. Mary Lindsay, a British pediatrician who appears in the film, will lead the discussion. The educational picture is part of a program of parent participation in the hospitalization of pre-school children.

In 1947, Mr. Goodridge founded Horizon, Inc., a research firm active primarily in the fields of physics and chemistry. The laboratory was in Cleveland, with the home office in the First National Bank Building here.

Its growth and success were immediate, the personnel increasing from Mr. Goodridge and his partner, Eugene Wainer, to more than 100 eight years after its founding. Horizon was awarded contracts for research by a number of the nation's largest industrial firms, the United States Navy and the Atomic Energy Commission.

Mr. Goodridge resigned as president of the firm about two years ago. In recent months, he had maintained an office here as a research consultant.

Alumnae from Princeton, Kingston, Franklin Park and Highland Park, attended the organizational meeting of the group, held last week at the home of Mrs. Eckelberry, 261 Moore Street. The plan to have a faculty member here to speak at a meeting in March.

GOVERNMENT EYED

In League Booklet. "Close-Up of Washington" is the title of a new booklet published by the League of Women Voters education fund. The three branches of the Federal Government are discussed, and the origin of the well-known buildings in Washington is also given.

The booklet will be on display at the Public Library through this month. Copies may be purchased for 25 cents through Mrs. Louis Pensak, 119 Random Road.

THOSE OVERDUE BOOKS

Library Changes Policy. The Princeton Public Library has decided to change its process of handling overdue notices of books. Beginning Monday, first notices will be mailed two weeks after a book is due rather than 10 days.

and postage for all notices will be added to the fine.

A reason given for the change is that the greatly-increased volume of circulation has meant quiring more and more labor. Also, the increased postage rates have contributed to the rising cost.

Mrs. Evelyn Patterson spoke to about 25 ladies on cookbooks and in conjunction with her talk, which coincided with the publication of her latest book, "Court-met Kitchen." The library arranged a display of four cookbooks recently added to the library's collection.

The library has also set up a display of the photographs from "Aku-Aku: The secret of Easter Island," by Thor Heyerdahl. The book is presently one of the most in demand at the library.

ELKS LODGE PLANNED

Wednesday Meetings Set. A Princeton lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks is being organized under the leadership of Charles Strehle, Frank Meyers and Carl Perantone. Meetings are being held the first and third Wednesdays of each month at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Prospect Avenue.

The annual convention of the New Jersey association will take place over the third weekend in June at Atlantic City. Representatives of the 87 state lodges will attend.

ARTIST EXHIBITION

In First One-Man Show. Joyce Jones, a Princeton resident for the past eight years, is holding her first "one-man" show at the Old Mill in Clinton Falls. Over 30 paintings and drawings are included in the exhibition which will run through Friday, December 5.

Mrs. Jones studied at the Worcester Art Museum and the Staatliche Kunst Akademie in Dusseldorf, as well as at Princeton. Europe. She has been the pupil of Jacques Kupfermann, and has taught painting at the Chapin School. She is now a teacher at Miss Mason's.

Takes Issue With Meyner.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Recently many newspapers have given space to a new Gubernatorial idea, to wit, that any driver exceeding the speed limit by more than ten miles per hour in areas zoned for speeds of 50 or 60 miles per hour shall be fined one cent for each mile in excess of the zone for one month. This idea was probably conceived in the mind of our august chief executive while being chauffeured along our highways in excess of 60—repeat, 60 miles per hour.

If our Governor really believed that speed causes accidents, I feel sure that he would instruct his State Trooper chauffeur to observe speed zones. If speed does cause accidents, it can kill just as positively whether the license plate reads number 1 or number 100. Instead of obeying posted speed zones, our Governor takes advantage of his immunity from minor restrictions, yet his hesitancy in imposing Meyner restrictions upon the rest of the motoring public!

The very fact that Governor Meyner is not abiding by speed laws strongly suggests that he has issued this latest dictum, not through regard for the safety of the people as a whole, but strictly and solely for political reasons. We all know that thousands of drivers who had accumulated sufficient points to lose their driving privilege were not prosecuted last year at the time the Governor was running for office. Now pressure from the press, from the opposition party, and from watchful citizens have forced the Governor's hand to the extent that he must drag a red herring across the trail.

Consultation of my dictionary reveals that the definition of governor is first: The person elected as chief executive of a State in the United States. Second: An automatic attachment to an engine, turbine, and the like, for controlling its speed.

Is it possible that his political policy, which appeared to be "One who does nothing makes no enemies" while running to retain office will now be covered up by the clever switch of assuming that he is the mechanical governor of automobile speeds within the State? Would he, if his plan goes into effect, slow his chauffeur down to the legal limits?

I strongly doubt this! If he were prepared to lend more than mere lip service to his plan for limitation of speeding, he would proceed within the legal speed limit for automobile travel on Route One while traveling from Trenton to the Gubernatorial Mansion in Princeton rather than racing at top speed.

Having always been a careful driver, and doing my best to observe traffic laws, my blood boils at seeing an automobile with license plate numbered 1 pass me in excess of fifty miles per hour, not because the State Trooper at the wheel is chasing some dangerous criminal or even some minor traffic violator, but merely because Bob is late getting home to Helen!

If the Governor desires to revoke the licenses of unsafe drivers and really aid in making the highways safer for those of us who are lawful, considerate drivers, rather than merely making a racket to cover up the mistakes of his administration, then let him direct that the files in the office of his own Director of Motor Vehicles yield up those whom the courts have found to be flagrant violators. I contend that those files conceal the names of those who have committed much more serious violations than merely exceeding the speed limit by ten miles per hour!

This is to tell you how much the PTA of Valley Road School appreciated your help with publicity for the Suzari Marionettes' production of "The Red Shoes." As you've probably heard, it was a great success.

It was nicely done—suitable for children and colorful and fun—and the youngsters loved it, and so did the parents who went with them. And it raised so much money that it looks as if this sort of entertainment will be a good one for future years.

Thanks again!

Thanks For Referendum Support.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

As chairman of the Statewide Committee for the Water Referendum, I wish to extend my personal thanks as well as those of the Water Referendum Committee and sponsoring state Senators and the Governor, for the splendid support given to our campaign by New Jersey newspapers. The overwhelming margin of approval as well as the unusually large total vote on the question attests to the effective manner in which you informed the voters on the provisions and merits of the Water Referendum. We know this never could have been accomplished without this widespread. Thanks again, for your fine cooperation.

"Y" Christened

The gymnasium was filled and those couldn't get in watched the proceedings in adjoining rooms over closed-circuit television last Sunday when Princeton's million-dollar YM-YWCA building was formally dedicated.

Governor Robert Meyner, the principal speaker, congratulated the people of Princeton on their support of the "Y," pointing out that "it's not the bricks and mortar alone that make a building, but the companionship of all the people in the community. This is a tremendous stride toward bringing the youth of all races together."

Kenneth Hawthorne, president of the YMCA, and Mrs. J. L. McClary, president of the YWCA, also spoke at the dedication. The Princeton High School Choir sang.

Township Planning?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

This is in connection with the proposed allocation of 58 acres for the use of Miss Fine's and the Country Day School which will be partially taxed.

The point at issue is the present tax structure in the Township and how can this be improved upon by proper zoning.

In view of the high taxes in the Township, is this not the time to plan for the highest rates obtainable? And will this be the case if the above schools locate in the Township? An item which should not be overlooked is the building of new roads to service these schools. The Great Road, will, in time, need to be widened because the enrollment of these two schools will increase considerably with the years. To obtain an idea of the cost of building roads, will you kindly tell me what is the cost of the road being built for the new school on the Johnson tract?

It would appear that we have piecemeal planning in the Township. I believe that other communities have zoned large areas for research and light industry. We have paid large sums to planning consultants for a "Master Plan"—is there a "Master Plan"? And is the land remaining in the Township being zoned to bring in the highest rates? We can no longer afford to have more and more residential developments. If we wait until someone wants to buy or develop a certain area and then hurriedly rezone this area, no one can properly evaluate the overall picture. Neighboring townships, where light industry has already eased the tax burden, can better afford to have such schools.

The assumption that a thousand children now attending private schools in the Township would attend public schools is exaggerated. Many of these children attend parochial schools and others would attend private schools wherever located.

In other words, if object to the further development of tax-free or semi-tax free land in the Township because we cannot afford it.

Question of the Week

Question: When it comes to the male animal, what do you look for — brains or brawn?

Location: Around town.

Miss Delores Arzenzi, 216 Lawrence Road, Trenton, proprietor of Delores Hairstylists: Anyone I'd be interested in would have to have brains, because I haven't any! And I can take care of the muscle department. You can't have two of a kind to make a perfect pair, certainly, because two people with the same type of personality clash. So "gray matter" is for me.

Miss Searvin Anderson, 146 Nassau Street, editor of the cooperative test division at ETS: Brawn only — somebody who can weatherstrip my windows, screen the back porch, carry my heavy luggage and lug in the groceries. That's all I have trouble with. If he can do all that, brains aren't necessary!

Mrs. Helen Carebidi, Levittown, housewife: Brains, of course, because it's the brainy man who brings home the bread and butter. Brawn with the brains is helpful, but definitely not nearly so important. Fortunately, my husband's got an ample amount of each — whether some of the other girls believe it or not.

Miss Viva Paulsson, 24 Charlton Street, operator at Dolores Beauty Shop: I guess it's about a 50-50 proposition with me. But the muscles are important so he can carry me over the threshold.

I'm pretty tall. I don't want to have to carry him through life, either. After all, a man should do the heavy chores outside the house like mowing the lawn and putting up storm windows.

Miss X (name withheld at respondent's request), cashier at downtown Princeton eatery: I'm just not interested in men, so I don't look for either.

Mrs. Patricia M. Kucha, H.U. School, school nurse: I can't honestly say I prefer one over the other. It takes a little bit of each. He's a sad man who is all brawn, and an equally sad one if he's all brain.

Miss Mary Perone, 224 Witherspoon Street, clerk and buyer at the Thorne Pharmacy: Both are pretty important, that's for sure. But, if I had my choice, I'd take brains. A man's got to be intelligent to be successful, right? The brainy ones apply themselves to their jobs more than the musclemen.

Miss Carolyn Curley, Princeton Pike, sophomore at Trenton High School: I don't know which. Ricky Nelson has the most of both, whatever it is, that's what I look for. I suppose brawn is my first consideration, since he's got to be Brains And/Or Brawn?

For years, the question of brains vs. brawn has fascinated womankind, and it remains a subject of considerable interest to Princeton distaffers today, as indicated by the answers to Question of the Week on this page. Of course, Princeton females aren't the only ones; the debate has nationwide appeal, being the idea behind a current network television show and the inspiration for much current writing.

Hollywood has contributed its share of data to the brains vs. brawn argument ever since motion pictures came sharply into focus. Men of great physical stature—the "brawn" guys—have more or less dominated the "top box office" lists from the beginning of the silver screen era. But men behind the films—the "brain" guys—have continued to make as much or more money than their stars.

So the question has prevailed—in Hollywood and elsewhere. Thus far, it hasn't been correlated to the divorce rate—in Hollywood and elsewhere.

happens to be smart, too, he's the greatest — a real good deal!

Mrs. Jennifer Cavanaugh, 6 Joline Road, receptionist at ASCOP: I guess you might say I look for something like a 52-48 ratio, with a slight edge to brawn. A close balance of both is best—a guy like Marlon Brando. Of course, I can't bear somebody who's completely ignorant!

Wiles. Cosmetics are made for the woman who is all female (this is Max Factor's line), all feminine or possibly both, depending on the requirements of the moment.

At Thorne's, Max Factor combines mirror and lipstick into something called "hi-society". The little oval cases are varied in design and quite attractive: $1.50 up.

He also makes Hypnotic and Permitt, both packaged in a deliciously wicked black and gold. Rubenstein likes gold, too, and she uses gold kid for a lovely little eye make-up kit that holds Mascaramatic, eye pencil and shadow each in a spirally designed gold cylinder: $5.

Her compact and lipstick set is designed in a black and gold Grecian style. Pursuant by Mme. R., is solid perfume or purse flacon made like an ornament to hang on your tree.

Perhaps the handsomest gold package is Frances Denny's spray perfume in an unbroken gold container shaped like a truncated cone.

Another unique and useful packaging idea comes from Angelique whose perfumed cream soap (four fragrances) is held in an aerosol can, like shaving cream. Dior adds Diorissimo to Miss Dior and Diorama. His new scent is a blend of floral fragrances.

The treasured gift at Thorne's is Hudnut's Du Barry set: five "Sedow Winds" items arranged on a 12-inch boudoir pillow of flaming pink nylon pile. Comes in a clear plastic hat box for $18.50. Use the box for a hat, the pillow for a head, the perfume for a magnet.

Guertlain packages Shalimar for Madame, Extra Dry for Monsieur and calls it "Gift for Two." Wileys pours its Carnation and Lily of the Valley in those hobnail milk glass bottles that are almost collectors' items by now. Coty puts a stylized silver, gold or pink ornament in its gift sets.

Thorne also has Ma Griffe and Roche d'un Soir by Carver, for the sophisticate, Queues Fleurs and Chantilly for the woman who likes lace. Your list complete?

Elizabeth Arden and Herb Farm products are on the shelves at Wilcox Pharmacy, and there are some enchanting little soap figures at Stone's Linen Shop.

It's A Man's World. The English Shop has a basket of loaves from St. John's Virgin Islands, and the Town Shop has oatmeal soap for men in a ceramic jar that you can use later for oatmeal cookies.

Besides Alfred Dunhill, Faberge and Max Factor, Thorne's carries, for men, International Club, Inc. and Caron's Four an Homme. Both the latter are designed "for discriminating men" which means they cost more. Factor puts a strip of gold foil with the bottle so you can cut out initials and personalize the saving lotion.

And Women Love It. Writing about Christmas lingerie is like writing about the sands of the Jersey shore. We'll be as complete as we can, but you may have to do some digging yourself.

At Edith's on Chambers Street, there is an exquisite Christmas ensemble: long, sheer, go with, bolero bed jacket and lounging set, all in dazzling white quilted nylon tricot, trimmed at one or two points only with a red, red, red and red velvet streamer. The gown is Grecian, the lounging set impish, with tight pants.

Among the dozens of lounging sets and ensembles on the rack at Edith's, you'll find pajamas of paisley velvet with swirling velveting robe, one-piece black velvet pajamas trimmed with rhinestones, black velvet pants, snug as a winter midnight, topped with a silk blouse of red and pink cambrays. There is even a bathrobe: terra-cotta washable nylon fleece.

Gowns! Sheer black tricot never-see-blue, cut full length with black velvet bands outlining an empire waist; an unusual combination of silk and nylon making a heavier tricot that hangs well because of its weight and is not so stuffy as nylon. Comes in a gown that drops from a shoulder yoke. A pure silk Grecian gown has cream lace on pink.

At Bailey's, Princeton Shopping Center, you may have a turquoise shorty gown lined with white, matching white panty trimmed with the blue. Or a pale chartreuse, lime and blue with faint, faint coin dots and aqua velvet shoeing straps.

At Clayton's, there's a black nylon tricot waltz gown trimmed with lace, a long-sleeved, full-length pink nylon tricot gown with prim, round collar. And everything in between.

Warm gowns at Clayton's are waltz length in dacron, nylon, and cotton, all mixed to make a light flannel and fashioned in pink and blue flowered designs. Bed jackets match.

Elise Goupil has a satin brocade housecoat with a versatile and unusual cut arrangement that converts it from slim Japanese kimono to full peignoir. Also in black, sapphire or red velvet. The most fragile robe is also the toughest: a pale flowered quilted nylon that will go into any washing machine.

It's New To Us

For good sober housewives, there is a coral orline glee robe (satin piped) at Elise Goupi, a paisley terry robe at Bailey's, a holly red Vignella classic at The English Shop and flowered Vignella bed-jackets at Clayton's. For a lounge, there are Huit's black velvet slippers trimmed with gold, including a so-called Turkish pair that looks more like a toboggan with a gold front. Reversed sheep-skin lined coral, turquoise or teal moccasins, un-reversed orlon pile makes all of some pastel scuffs. Daniel Green has tried and true, makes P.W.W., a glamorous moccasin in many colors, and a nameless slipper of corduroy with small and saucy bow on the vamp.

The English Shop has lambskin lined leather slippers in blue, red, taupe or brown. The harlem slipper holds court at Stone's, where it appears in black velvet with pearls. Nylon scuffs, ruffled and pastel, have sturdy foam soles.

Many A Slip. Red nylon taffeta, scalloped and slit for walking, appears surprisingly on the shelves at Clayton's. Lots of slips here with French lace trim, especially one in champagne nylon satin. Elise Goupi has hand-made lingerie (slips, half-slips, etc.) in Swiss nylon. The French Shop carries Luxile and Keyser slips in 44.48. All are nylon, some are semi-tailored, some are lavishly with lace and applique. Elise's has slips from $3.95 up to the fine all-silk slips that are nearly priceless. And before you leave the Chambers Street shops make a note of the cream-puff panty in white or black nylon with embroidered red cherries. Comes in a miniature hat-box, of all things.

Like Vignella. Only . . . In men's sports shirts, the new thing is a cloth very much like Vignella, but less expensive. At Harry Bisset, 20 Nassau, it is called Challa cloth (Swiss) and it's half wool, half Egyptian cotton. ($13.95 for solids, $15 for plaids). At Douglas MacLeod, it's Woolricha (Swiss) and it's 20 percent wool, 80 percent cotton, $8.95 for stripe, plaid or solid.

Harry Bisset likes, as always, the Pendleton shirt in heavy virgin wool from Oregon. Jackets and robes are available in the same cloth. Another favorite at this shop is a wash-and-wear raincoat with deep pleated floor fleece zip-out lining. It also sheds wrinkles. $45.

Jade For A Beauty

Kung Ping, the little Oriental gift shop on Witherspoon Street, has some of the most intriguing earrings of the current shopping season. They are more for a woman who is very tall—six or seven feet—and they are fabulous combinations of filigree metal work, jade, enamel and chips of blue or white stones.

The earrings are very long, some over three inches. One pair is dull gold, rather like Chinese coins, with tiny dangles of jade. Another is a series of carved gold spheres dangle one below the other. There is a pair of silver earrings wrought in the fine silver manner of Mexican jewelry. Tiny colored stones brighten the gray of the metal.

Another pair consists of long silver fish, that sway and turn because of the supple way their scales have been linked together. (Since these are fish earrings, you can always say they are longer than they really are.)

The handsomest pair, we thought, has two interlocking rings of jade carved from a single piece of the stone.

At MacLeod, there is the favorite all-wool jersey Chemise Lacoste, in long sleeves this year. From France in grey, taupe, or black for $12.50.

Weiss' Clothing in the Princeton Shopping Center, has a 25-foot rack, eight shelves deep. Full of sports shirts. Take your pick. There is also, by the way, a wash-and-wear pajama in this store for $2.98 and a ditto dress shirt for the same price.

Sports shirts at Lahey's come from Jayson and Arrow, and the one we liked best is dark red with little old-fashioned automobiles in black. There are also lots of paisleys in sports shirts, and five or six different striped patterns in regular shirts.

At The English Shop, aside from the turtle-neck Sheldons and lambs-wool pullovers, the big thing is a Danish bulky knit sweater that looks as though it had been knit with telephone poles. Red, grey.

Weiss has Highland cardigans with three low buttons in silver, the sweaters made of orlon and lamb wool in charcoal or red plaid with the contrasting color. If it's really cold, wear a quilted car coat for which you have paid $15.99, or a suburban in stripes and solids that has set you back only $15.89.

For taking it easy, The English Shop has a Liberty silk robe whose price we won't even quote. Down the scale in price, but right up there in appearance, is a deep Chinese red rayon robe lined with black, or black lined with red.

Errolly the shoe man, on Palmer Square, has Daniel Greens with a high vamp in red or natural with orlon pile lining, and a folding leather travel slipper with drawstring case.

Huit's prize is a sheepskin lined slipper made of deerskin with supple deerskin sole, all pale and gold. For $10.95. Same thing unlined, same price. Daniel Green's red rayon robe, his soft-slipper by his bed.

"Have!" a Thig to Wear." Then ask for a $69.50 cashmere from The Town Shop, done up exquisitely with beaded brocade trimming, lavish French ribbon embellishments, or twisted egg grain and satin. We'll take the bright red one with ivory and gold brocade down the front. And you?

Two-ply cashmires at Clayton's are $39.95, one ply are less, for ladies. Bernhard Altman controls across with quiet little sweaters whose bits of gogging and fine detail make them welcome Christmas presents. Classics are lambs wool, up to size 42, in every color a lamb never came in. Blouses in this store go up to size 42, also.

Braemar is the cashmere name at Mary Chapin and The English Shop. At The English Shop are Vivia pattern and plaid shirts by Lady Hathaway. Liberty print blouses and handkerchiefs. You'll want one of those cream colored Norwegian jackets, silver buttoned, halooned, and color-coded. And the giant-stitch Danish sweaters for men (see above) are for the ladies, too. Danish ski jackets look like big colorful blankets sewn up the side, with Northern-lights designs.

Sweaters match skirts at The Knitting Shop. These ready-made cashmires come in many shades. Dress coats come in white with bands of black lace down the front and around the neck. (White or black, too).

The Clothesline has all-camel hair sweaters, softer than any camel looks. Imported Shelllands by Decortis come in a wonderful green-yellow.

Mary Chapin likes to see customers in snugly woven jersey slacks with matching tops, slightly turtle-necked, in shocking pink, yellow, black, or velvet slacks, bluffs as in the store. In terracotta, pink, black, eggplant, or orange. Other jersey slacks, by Mr. Gee, are lined wool jersey in black or olive.

What you need is a full-length kidskin French coat in white, $169.95 at Mary Gill. Other colors, too, and a shortie that's only $96.

Mary Gill's sweaters are softies of kid mohair, wool and nylon. You'll like a copper and black slip-on, and a bulky skating sweater in white with shawl collar. A black sweater has a loose turtle neck with neck, sleeve and hem embroidery that has remote Scandinavian ancestry. Red, black and white horizontal stripes blaze from another Gill sweater.

At The French Shop, cocktail sweaters, from $10.95, are trimmed with tiny red bows at each side of the neckline before the descent of embroidered ribbon down the front. A white sweater has black scrolls down its front.

Furb-lined cardigans keep Mayme Mead warm. One is an over-blouse with low pockets, one is a collared cardigan. Tyocora, a fine, soft orlon, makes the cardigan Mr. Bailey likes best. At his Shopping Center Store, you'll also find a white blouse whose front closes with the new Felero, in-

For Him, Her, Or It

There are two Gift Bars in town this year that defy the catalogues. You can go to either one of them and buy a present for man, woman or—well, no, not the kiddies, not the kiddies.

At The English Shop, there is a gift table with such fanciful as a shoe horn made like a sabre (ten gards, Kedi), a mahogany pepper grinder two feet tall, a shag rug size (the kind you sit on) and some charming little pill boxes.

At Rosette Pennington in the Shopping Center, you may buy a ceramic cookie jar in which to keep dog biscuits. It says "Fido" on the side and has appropriate decorations. Here, also, is a five-inch wooden clothes pin to use as a desk accessory, a delicate white hand that holds a shell into which you put flowers, a candle snuffer, a set of six for hurricane lights, a brilliantly painted lavabo from Italy, and a beautiful pair of English brass candlesticks.

ated of a zipper. Blouse has lace-edged collar and long sleeves, $6.95.

Max Santa for the snow (like tweed coat at Bailey's, lined with black alpaca that turns back to make a wide black shawl collar. Coat is $44.95.

For Her Stocking. Farkouh's Pennsylvania Dutch apron . . . French Shop's pearl-handled manicure pieces in anapurple case . . . Mayme Mead's black or white satin gloves . . . Cummins Shop's $1 fan of colored emery boards, decorated with shells . . . Pakman's Craftsman's billfolds.

Mary Chapin's leather bags with the loop handle at one end . . . The Clothesline's new leather bag . . . Fudler, less expensive than his old ones, just as quietly handsome . . . Rosette Pennington's lucite and gold cigarette case . . . Clayton's mohair stole by Liberty, light as egg-white . . . Town Shop's satin, grosgrain and velvet striped evening stoles.

Huli's Tarsan boot, extra tall, lined with nylon pile . . . lined Keds from Brophy or Bootery.

Hobby? For the hobbyist, the best personal gift is a thought for his hobby. At Mall Camera, Kodak's Pony III outfit is $31.95, a small Kodak $14.76. This store has books on photography for every fan. How to photograph animals, children, flowers and even people—$1.95 each. Art supplies, too at Mall, including oils, water colors, Windsor and Newton paints and books on arts and crafts.

A reminder from the Shopping Center camera store: bring in your cameras and batteries for Christmas check-ups so you won't miss any shots of Santa Claus.

For skaters, Huli's has women's white figure skates as low as $12.95, men's black ones from $10.95. Men's hockey skates, too.

Nassau Paint has Colonial nique sets for the home craftsman, and Grumbacher's oil paints for the Sunday painter. What we like best in this store is a real calf skin (no tail) which you can buy for $1.95 a square foot. (Nails, chops not included.) You make it into bags, rugs, or whatever you make out of calf. This one is a Holstein.

For the woman who works with her hands, the Knitting Shop has needle cases and knitting bags. And, of course, kits by the million, from mittens to the finest yarn and fabric kits.

And for the serious male hobbyist, a small red and green striped barrel at The English Shop. Pull it apart and you'll find a set of stainless steel shot glasses.

a great novel by a famous Princeton author

A book, bound to be on best seller lists, newly published, is here for you. "From the Terrace" presents a true, detailed, uncompromising picture of the life of an intelligent, attractive, successful man in the first half of the twentieth century; his parents, his early loves and life at Princeton, his wife and children, his long affair with the girl he meets in young manhood, his friends and enemies among the men and women of society, business and government. Told with candor and compassion, humor and wisdom, it is, in the author's own words, his best.

BEYOND EXPECTATIONS

Tigers Had Good Year. "If we had beaten Dartmouth Saturday," Coach Dick Colman observed in his post-game press conference, "we would have had a fantastically successful season. Since we lost, it was merely tremendously successful."

It was an unusual comment from a coach who had seen his team go down to a 21-12 defeat in the game that would have meant a second straight Ivy title. On all counts, however, it was based on logic. What Dick meant was simply that the available personnel had done as well as could possibly have been expected of it—particularly in view of the season-long string of injuries.

As they had a year ago, the Tigers went into the final quarter of the final game of the season with the Ivy championship hanging in the balance. That in itself is a major accomplishment, even without taking into account the fact that not once during the nine-game schedule were more than nine of the 11 players originally selected for starting assignments available. In some games, the number was as low as six.

Of three top linemen (end Jim Stanbury, tackle Frank Schultze, guard Art May), only Schultze saw limited action against Cornell. Otherwise, these three were out of the picture for the entire season. Tailback Dan Sachs (who ran 70 yards Saturday on his first appearance in a month) was out of the picture for the entire season, briefly against Penn, Cornell and Dartmouth in the last seven weeks of the season.

Center Frank Szewczek was below par against Dartmouth with a hip injury, although playing a good part of the game. In addition, a host of capable reserves were sidelined for part or most of the year, including such potentially capable players as end Mike Conway, guard Gary Lafus, fullback Jack Sullivan, fullback Brewster Loud.) The heavy at-

SIX BIG MEN JUMPED BUT THE SHORTEST PLAYER GOT IT: Midway through the first period in the Dartmouth game Saturday, Dan Sachs threw a pass to Ed Kostelnik waiting in the end zone. No less than the big Indians converged on Kostelnik but the ball bounced off every outstretched hand within reach and landed in the grasp of reserve quarterback Gene Locke (no. 21) for a touchdown. At 5-10, Locke is shorter than any of the other six players—but was in the right place at the right time.

tion is the worst Princeton Princeton personnel has known in the sport in the past 13 years.

Dartmouth Earned Its Victory. None of this is to say that the better team did not win Saturday. Bob Blackman's Hanover Indians were a hard-hitting, extremely well drilled unit, one that wanted victory badly and one that won it.

Bucks Bill Gundy (nine passes for 134 yards and credit for two touchdowns); Jack Crouthamel (117 yards in 13 carries for a line nine-yard average); and Brian Hepburn (a slashing fullback with an impressive 4.8 average through the middle), were a bit more than the outmanned Tiger line could handle. Actually, Princeton came within 18 yards of matching the visitors' 229-yard rushing total, but yielded 131 yards piling to the dismal nine-yard total it achieved in the air. That spelled the difference between the teams.

The 44,000 who filled Palmer

A Question Of Position

The question of proper position on the gridiron for the field judge will be given renewed attention before another season begins—partially as a result of two plays in last week's Dartmouth-Princeton game.

In two second-period plays, Ray Barbut, serving as field judge that afternoon and recognized as one of the top officials in the east, made calls that were widely criticized in the belief that he was too far away from the action. Early in the first half, Princeton's John Heyd blocked Crouthamel, spilling the latter just as he had a chance to make an interception. Barbut called interference—but on Crouthamel.

In other years, the field judge covered deep plays by taking a position well into the defensive team's secondary, but more recently, he has been stationed on the line of scrimmage. As a S. Bushnell, Commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference, said this week that the question of proper position for the field judge will be carefully reviewed well before the 1950 season begins.

Stadium to near-capacity saw a great deal of good football, with the lead changing hands three times before the Green finally took charge. The visitors went 60 yards in four plays the first time they got the ball, Princeton rolled 80 in just three shortly thereafter and when both teams not only missed their conversions but failed to score again in the first half, it was 6-all at the intermission.

The Tigers struck first when play resumed. Hugh Scott's 42-yard run on a fake reverse set up a touchdown pass that he threw to Johnny Heyd. Again the Tigers missed the conversion and when Dartmouth rolled 67 yards in five plays (three of them passes that averaged 20 yards apiece), following with a placekick to take a 12-12 lead, the fat was in the fire.

The team good enough to control the ball and score once more was re-marked as the 1948 Ivy champion when the fourth-period got under way. It proved to be Dartmouth, which not only held the ball for 18 plays but rolled 76 yards and then achieved the day's only two-point conversion. That gave the Indians a nine-point lead, all the insurance they needed for the remaining ten minutes of play.

On the way, the visitors broke successively out of a third and seven situation, then third and 22, and finally fourth and three. All were passes—the last from a punt formation to Crouthamel, who picked up 15 yards behind a screen on the play that sealed the Tigers' doom.

Princeton thus finished with a 6-3 mark and, unless the Penn-Cornell game ends in a tie, will wind up in a second place deadlock in the Ivy standings with the victors of that Thanksgiving Day game. Off such a record and the first Big Three title since 1932, it is clearly a distinctly successful season.

Thirteen seniors completed their Princeton football careers on Saturday, but only four of them were starters. Linemen included end Bob Shepardson; tackles Gene Forcione, George Johnson, Charlie Krick and Jim Henderson; and guards Joe DeDeo, Paul Warwick and Howie Hudson.

The backs were Captain Fred Tiley, fullback; John Heyd and Ray Empson, who played both wingback and fullback during their careers; and Tom Fox, a center converted to a tailback. The quartet of starters—smallest number Princeton has had to replace in a number of years: Tiley, Heyd, Forcione, DeDeo.

BASKETBALL ON WEDNESDAY
Tigers Open Against Hofstra. The 1948-49 basketball season will open for Princeton University in Dillon Gym Wednesday night at 8. Hofstra College, coached by R. Hofstra Koltz '45, a stand-out while he was here during the immediate post-war era, will provide the opposition as the Tigers launch a 23-game schedule.

For the first time in several seasons, Coach Conny Cappon will start a lineup that does not—Continued on Page 19

Include a sophomore. Beginning with Fred Perkins and Whitey Fulcomer four years ago, one or more sophomores have broken into the first five players. This season, Cappon will go with four seniors and a junior.

Four "B's" (which in this case also means "big") and 5-9 Art Klein will see most of the action this season. The quartet of "B's" consists of Captain Carl Belz and Joe Burns, both 6-5; red-taddeed Herm Belz, 6-3 and Carl's twin brother; and Jim Brangan, 6-1. The latter, a Lawrenceville product, is the lone junior.

Principal reserves back from last year's varsity will be Bob Baker, John Houston and Bob Houghtlin, while the top sophomores figure to be Mike Burton and Don Swan, both 6-3, and Drew Hyland, a 5-9 player. Last winter's freshman quintet finished with an 8-4 mark.

Team speed again is expected to be a Princeton shortcoming. The players hope that they will be able to make up in shooting accuracy what they lack in mobility. They are also sure to benefit if the injuries that sidelined Carl Belz and Joe Burns for a number of key games last season are not repeated again.

Much of the team's chances of de-throning Dartmouth as Ivy champion rest on Carl Belz's ability to play in top form throughout the season. He set a sophomore record of 382 points two years ago but tapered off in effectiveness last winter. When he is hitting steadily, the Tigers are likely to be a match for any team in the circuit.

Despite an in-and-out, 15-8 mark last year, no Ivy team was able to trim the Tigers twice. The Orange and Black split with Brown, Harvard, Dartmouth, Yale and Cornell, defeating Penn and Columbia in both meetings.

The 1958-59 schedule:
Dec. 3, Hofstra; 6, Lafayette at Easton; 10, Temple; 13, Navy; 18, Rutgers at New Brunswick; 27, Ohio State at Columbus; 29 and 30, Motor City Tournament at Detroit; Jan. 5, Pennsylvania (); 9, Yale (); 10, Brown (); 16, Cornell () at New York; 17, Cornell (*) at Ithaca; 31, Rutgers.

Feb. 6, Brown () at Providence; 7, Yale () at New Haven; 13, Columbia () at Cornell; 20, Harvard () at Cambridge; 21, Dartmouth () at Haver; 27, Dartmouth () at Haver; 28, Harvard () and Mar. 4, Pennsylvania () at Philadelphia.

HUN RECORD: 4-2-1
Finals Lost, 32-0. Despite its worst shellacking of the fall—a 32-0 setback administered by powerful Delbarton last Friday—Hun School of Princeton completed the 1958 season with a creditable 4-2-1 record, its first winning campaign.

WE Congratulate

JIM BLAIR
Princeton Year

So valuable is a year of experience and instruction on the varsity squad at Princeton that very few sophomores ever break into the starting lineup. It is almost axiomatic that a player who goes to Blairtown as a junior or senior will beat out the newcomers to the varsity, no matter how promising the latter is.

There are, of course, exceptions to virtually every rule. In recent seasons, Jack Sapich, Fred Tiley and Frank Savietz have won starting assignments as sophomores, but lending emphasis to the degree of difficulty involved in such an achievement is the fact that such consistently outstanding players as Dan Sachs, Mike Ippolito and Mike Iseman did not.

When Princeton faced Dartmouth for the Ivy title last Saturday, the only sophomore who had held a starting position consistently during the 1958 season was Jim Blair. When Jim Stansbury, counted on as a regular but sidelined for the season by a back injury, proved unavailable, Blair beat out another senior and two juniors for the job.

As the season progressed, he showed good ability as a two-way player, and impressed particularly with a big pair of hands that helped him finish the season as the team's top pass receiver. In all, he caught nine that were good for 136 yards from scrimmage, one touchdown and four two-point conversions. One of these assured victory in the 16-14 triumph over Harvard.

A resident of Beverly Hills, Calif., and son of a Princeton alumnus (Albert G. Blair '32), the 19-year old sophomore is also a promising baseball pitcher. Weighing 190 and standing 6-2, he figures to have a bright athletic future here.

Blair was one of the linemen singled out by Dick Colman as having played a "fine game" against Dartmouth. It's a long way to Blairtown, 1959, but the sophomore end already fits firmly into Princeton plans for another shot at the Ivy title.

pain since 1951. And, in the process, the Red and Black showed substantial promise for next year, what with starting halfbacks Paul Kadlec and Alan Landis slated to return along with such line standouts as the sturdy Savidge brothers from Lambertville.

Among other things the '58 season proved a pretty feather in the cap of Coach Hawley Waterman, who came here from St. James School in Maryland three years ago. It signified a terrific rebuilding job by the affable young mentor, who doubts as the school's athletic director, for it came on the heels of 1-3 and 2-5 campaigns in 1956 and 1957, respectively.

Delbarton, dubbed "the Notre Dame of prep eleven" by one observer, won a clear-cut victory here over an outmanned and outclassed — but never outthought — Princeton team. As the final statistics indicated vividly, the visitors from Morristown, in gaining their seventh straight decision of '58 and their 34th in a row since being beaten, were in complete control. They rolled to 18 first downs and 336 yards on the ground, without needing a good pass (they tried only a pair) and resorting to a punt only once. The Johnny Huns, meanwhile, picked up seven first downs, 45 yards rushing and only 31 yards on three successful tosses of 16 attempts.

The Green Wave, a well-balanced club up front and in the backfield, scored twice in the opening period, once in the second and two more times in the fourth, earning its tallies by driving or running distances of 66, 78, 73, 37 and 80 yards. Waterman's charges, on the other hand, were thwarted throughout the game, finding themselves confined to advances in the middle of the field and never getting within the Delbarton 20.

Even in the tarnished season's finale, there were bright moments for Hun's supporters in a crowd

BUT WHICH WAY SHOULD I GO NOW? Pint-sized quarterback John Keffer, substituting for injured Hun starter Charley Bennett, picks up several yards around left end in third period against Delbarton, but finds his opponents too big and too many to get by for long. FOOTBALL: 200 IN SOCCER

Wins Last Three Games, Ability to Blank Its Last Three Opponents gave Princeton Country Day School a record above the breakeven point in soccer this season. The final mark was four victories and three ties against three defeats.

Witherspoon School was a victim twice in the final eight days of the season, losing 2-0 and 1-0. Robbie Carriek scored both goals in the first contest, while a penalty kick by Bill Smoyer broke up a fourth-period senseless tie in the second game. Goals by Smoyer and Jimmy Aul served to blank West Windsor, 2-0.

BOWLING NOTES

"Never Underestimate, etc." Maintaining the sizzling streak that already has brought her the highest scores registered by a distaff bowler at Princeton Recreation Center in several years, Dorothy Kleiber this past week tossed a 236 game, highest of the season for any member of "the weaker sex." As a matter of fact, her eye-catching performance in the Women's Industrial loop was better than any league score recorded by male bowlers during the same period.

remained atop the Women's Industrial circuit, while Decker's (53) jumped into second place ahead of the Lucky Strikes (55). Behind Mrs. Kleiber, other noteworthy games were hit by Janice Cifelli, 218; Joan Answorth, 207-189; Helen Martinette, 192-183; Helen Tarnall, 187; Betty Cuhery, 179; Marilyn Lowe, 178, and Marilyn Silvester, 171.

Will Rose's 229 in the Princeton "B" League was tops among male competitors, while Don Snyder picked up a 222 in the same loop and Jim Souder rolled a 221 in the Princeton "A" League.

Other 200-plus marksmen: Dick Anderson, 216; Elmer Drake, 207; and Gil Ireland, 200, in the Tri-County Women's League; John Drabson, 215; Rudy Ehart, 201; Nelson Smith, 202; and Earl Smith, 201, in the "A" circuit; Dick Edwards and Bill Barthie, 213 each; Lou Baldwin, 200; George Paris, 203; and Joe Perpetua, 200, in the "B" loop; and Bob Sapel, 211; Rudy Lehnert, 205-203; George Wengry, 203; John Maier, 202; John Frazer, 201, and Dan Brobst, 200, in the Industrial League.

Teamwise, Belle Mead finally double-kicked Kingston (48 apiece) in the frolics' perennially vicious battle and Hull's Shaws (42) bounded back into the No. 1 spot in the "A" circuit, just ahead of Tiger Garage and Farr Hardware (40 apiece), last week's co-leaders. In the "B" loop, Jefferson Plumbing (72) extended its first-place margin and Maul Electric (43) moved from fourth to second position, while, among the Industrialists, the rest of the eight-team league closed in on Cable Tavern (48), Para Laboratory Supplies and Maier & Baldwin (36 apiece).

Cranbury Pharmacy (53), vaulting from fourth place to the challenger's slot, almost caught front running Town Topics (51) in the Princeton Women's Bowling League, with Tiger Bus (51) jumping from fifth to third and Nassau Del (48) from sixth to fourth. Helen Scott posted the loop's high score, a 194, followed Rachael Harris, 188; Betty Snyder, 187; Sue Fisher and Mary Haas, 177 each; Marilyn Silvester, 175; and Ruth Martin, 174.

TO HONOR ANDERSON
Testimonial Dinner Commemorating the 10th anniversary of the Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson as pastor of the Witherspoon Presbyterian church, a testimonial dinner will be held on Thursday, December 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the dining hall of Princeton Theological Seminary. Reservations may be made until December 1 by calling Mrs. Ethelyn Allison, committee chairman, WA 4-1068. The Rev. Mr. Anderson came to Witherspoon from the pulpit of the New York City Labor Temple, an agency of the Presbyterian church devoted to exploring ways of ministering to organized labor.

In the 10 years of his pastorate, Witherspoon has established a reputation as an integrated church, and the Rev. Mr. Anderson often has a Sunday congregation that is 20% white. The ministry of the church itself became integrated in 1957 when the Rev. David H. McAlpin Jr., accepted the call to serve as associate pastor.

In addition to working for racial unity, the Rev. Mr. Anderson has retained his interest in labor, and was instrumental in establishing the local hotel and restaurant workers union. He has also been active in movements for integrated housing in the Princeton area. He is the founder of a church in Manhattan for "rooted migrants," the Westminster Presbyterian Church.

WHO'S WHO IN PRINCETON
Listings Total 256. The 1958 issue of "Who's Who in America" includes 256 residents of Princeton whose occupations range from teaching to administration. The greatest number, 19, are language teachers. There are 18 mathematicians, 16 administrators, 11 historians, 10 physicians and nine chemists included.

According to Cedric Larson, who has analyzed the volumes from 1899 through the present issue, the ratio of names in "Who's Who" per 10,000 population is 2.81 percent. Projecting this figure to Princeton, the 256 names listed would be normal for a city of 850,000.

The breakdown also shows that the number of college graduates has steadily increased, with college attendance records reaching a high of 92 percent in the 1958 volume. In a preliminary report, Princeton graduates lead on the basis of the number of entries in relation to current enrollment. Williams, Amherst, Wesleyan and Haverford follow.

On an overall basis, Princeton stands third, with Harvard and Yale in first and second place. Columbia, Pennsylvania and University of Chicago are fourth, fifth and sixth in this tally.

"The high standing of the smaller colleges is apparently due to the type of well-rounded education the small independents provide," Mr. Larson states. "Who's Who," publisher, Wheeler Sammons Jr., adds, "They learn how to make a living, too."

PRINCETON HANKS SECOND

Many Alumni in Area. As might be expected, Princeton ranks high in the listing of towns and cities in the United States in the number of Princeton University graduates living in the area. In fact, it is second only to New York City, with 1,359 against 2,771 for the metropolis, according to the latest Princeton University Alumni Directory.

The listing of graduates of the university includes a total of 37,126 names in the 1249 pages. Besides New York and Princeton, other areas with large numbers of alumni in residence are the District of Columbia, 757; Philadelphia, 531; Pittsburgh, 516; and Baltimore, 481.

The Rev. Henry Kolmshiek of the A.P. Mission, Philbrook, Punjab, India, heads the listing by classes as the sole surviving member of the Class of 1889. Seventeen other alumni are members of classes that graduated before 1890.

William Labbey Jr. and Moses Taylor Pyne compiled the first Alumni Directory in 1858, which was a listing of the 4000 alumni of the then College of New Jersey. Since that time, 21 volumes have been issued, and more than 100,000 copies have been distributed by the Bureau of Alumni Records.

The present volume, which is dedicated to President Robert F. Goheen, was prepared by a staff working with Miss Sarah S. Sillocks, director of the bureau, and Howard W. Strop, registrar of the university. It includes a listing by name, class and geographical distribution of all alumni and has records of occupations and degrees conferred by Princeton.

According to the numerical distribution by states, 6614 alumni reside in New York, 6289 in New Jersey, 5829 in Pennsylvania, 1605 in California, 1197 in Connecticut, 1367 in Illinois, 1364 in Massachusetts, and 1316 in Ohio. The listing includes 1154 members of the four undergraduate classes, alumni of the Graduate School, recipients of honorary degrees and honorary class members as well as the regular alumni.

At Cambridge School. Social and cultural activities available to Kendall Park residents will be presented at a special meeting of the Civic Association Sunday at 8:30.

The meeting will take place at the Cambridge School. A speaker from each of the 12 organizations will be present to explain the various programs and answer questions from the floor.

SCHOOL MEETING SET

For Kendall Park. The first general membership meeting of the Kendall Park Cooperative Nursery School will take place Wednesday at 8:30 at the Six Mile Run Reformed Church.

Various committees will submit progress reports at that time, with the Parent-Education Committee to explain the purpose and value of the seven basic areas of play at the school. Items in the agenda will be the role of the participating parent and the values of nursery school for the pre-kindergarten child.

Mrs. Edna Holland is chairman of the organization with Mrs. Alice Higgins serving as president.

Mrs. John Henderson and her committee will be in charge of refreshments.

The officers include: Miss Gladys Wheeler, Chief Daughter; Mrs. James McDowell, Sub-Chief Daughter; Mrs. Charles Cook, Past Chief Daughter; Mrs. Joseph McLean, chaplain; Mrs. David Todd, recording secretary; Mrs. James Forsyth, financial secretary; Mrs. William Todd, treasurer; Mrs. John Henderson, conductor; Mrs. Robert Smith, assistant conductor; Miss Martha Wood, inside guard; Mrs. Frank Olson, outside guard; Mrs. John Dempsey, pianist; and Mrs. Cook, three-year trustee.

CELEBRATION SLATED

For Warren Parmenter. A "victory" dinner-dance will be held Saturday, December 6, at the Forsgate Country Club in honor of Warren G. Parmenter, successful GOP candidate for the South Brunswick Township Committee. Sponsored by "The Friends of Warren G. Parmenter," the event will begin at 7. Tickets are by reservation only, and those interested in attending should call Charles Kubiak at DA 9-2188 or Andreas Cruber at DA 9-5337.

SCLEROSIS SURVEY

Five Counties Included. Mrs. Thomas C. Roberts, a director of the Central New Jersey Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Soc. and patient aid representative for Princeton, has announced a five-county survey of MS patients to ascertain the number of known cases to locate new ones and to find which chapter services are most vitally needed. The five counties are Hunterdon, Burlington, Mercer, Middlesex and Monmouth.

Letters and questionnaires have been mailed to all neurologists, other members of county medical societies, dentists and chiropractors as well as to hospitals and nursing home personnel and government health and welfare agencies. All information received in complete confidence and will only be used to plan the future patient aid program, according to Dr. Bernard A. Hirschfeld, neurologist and chairman of the Chapter Medical Advisory Board.

The questionnaire has been compiled by Mrs. Alvan Campbell Jr., former executive director of the chapter and present chairman of the patient aid committee, under the guidance of professional medical social workers. It has been sent to all known patients of which there are approximately 60 in Mercer County.

"YOU'RE the FIRST

We're moving! To a wonderful new house. You won't believe this, but we made our choice from an incomplete model. It was so terrific, we talked the Builder into taking our deposit. And what's more, because we're buying a home in the first grouping, we're getting AT NO EXTRA COST a choice of brick or stone front exterior, an automatic electric garage door and a large finished patio. We're thrilled and expect to move in January. Why don't you take a ride out to Lawrenceville Manor on Darrah Lane? It's between the Princeton Pike and Lawrenceville Road (Rt. 206), just 2 miles north of the Brunswick Circle. We'd love to have you as our neighbor."

ONE NEW PRINCETONIAN found classified advertising in these pages as valuable as the Daily Bulletin. First he would the exact house he had been looking for, at the price he wanted to pay. Then he advertised his own home—in a community about ten miles from here—and promptly sold that. His experience is one more reason why TOWN TOPICS is far more than classified advertising each week than all other Princeton papers combined.
